Seventh. That if such payments as are herein specified be made, this conveyance shall be void; but in case of default in payment of any installment, either of interest or of principal or in the performance of any of the covenants or agreements herein contained, then, or any any time thereafter, during the continuance of such default, the said party of the second part may, without notice, declare the entire debt hereby secured immediately due and payable, and thereupon, or in case of default in payment of said principal debt upon maturity, the said party of the second part shall be entitled to the immediate possession of said premises and to receive the rents and profits therefrom as additional and collateral security for the indebtedness hereunder, and may proceed to foreclose this mortgage; and from the date of such default all items of indebtedness hereunder shall draw interest at the rate of ten per cent per annum; and in case of foreclosure the judgment rendered shall provide that the real estate shall be sold in the entirety and not in parcels, and any then existing law reducing the present redemption period may govern, at the option of the holder of this mortgage; and said first parties hereby expressly waive an appraisalment of said real estate, and all benefits of the homestead exemption and stay laws of the State of Kansas, now existing or hereafter enacted.

In testimony whereof, the said parties of the first part have hereunto subscribed their names and affixed their seals on the day and year above mentioned.
